

Feast of St. Lucy 2011

Jusette05

wrote on Dec 15, 2011

Every December 13, Barangay Sta. Monica in Hagonoy, Bulacan has tradition to celebrate the feast of St. Lucy. It's always next to our barangay big fiesta during the month of May.

Six masses are always held during this said feast. The first mass was 4:00 am early morning then, 5:00 am, 7:00 am, 8:00 am, the final mass for this morning also known as "misa mayor" was 9:00 am. & in the afternoon was 5:00 pm.

I heard the first bell from Sta. Monica's chapel at exactly 3:01 am. From then on, the bell was ringing randomly. I woke-up early & I did some of my daily chores. I asked my family members if someone would like to come with me to hear the mass at 9:00 am.

Part 1:

This first part of my video was taken at 8:36 am. As expected, there were some entrepreneurs selling their own products & at the same time there were life size image of St. Lucy. The 8:00 am mass was just finished that's why the people are going out from the chapel. If you see that there were people who have their own stick with the picture of a saint, there were the hermano mayor & hermana mayors for this year.

I suddenly feel happy for a while when I saw a small dog in the video time of 3:19 because it was really like Yuchi, one of my pet. Yuchi died two years ago because of my front neighborhood.

Before this part one (1) end, someone interrupted me. I'm sorry about it.

Part 2

This is the part two (2) of my video that I've taken during the feast of St. Lucy. The mass started at around 9:05 am.

"Purihin Ang Panginoon" is the title of the opening song & personally this song is one of my favorite inspirational songs because when I was singing it I was like a member of a choir.

In order for me to reflect, I intentionally cut this video when "Liturgy of the Word" begins.

What I learned from homily is "to believe is to see".

Part 3

This is the part three (3) of my video during the feast of St. Lucy.

It was just finished the "misa mayor" that's why people are going outside from the Sta. Monica's chapel. People are busy in arranging their own selves for the procession. Some people want to watch the procession; some of them are just for fun.

Part 4

This is my last but not the least video during the feast of St. Lucy for 2011.

At 11:07 am, the procession passed by to our street (Purok 5). We are lucky because the weather is very good, hot & humid.

There were seven (7) images of saints in the procession. Nuestra Senora Dela Pena Francia is the saint in beginning the procession, Nuestra Senora La Reina Delos Angeles who wore a violet veil, St. Lucy who has palmera leave in her right hand & a pair of eyes in her left hand. St. Anthony Band is the official band in this said feast.

Look more here: www.st.lucy.catholicchurch.ph